Let's Talk!

Off. 286-2882 Res. 286-4062

Monday, November 21, 1994

Watching the votes come in Concentration, and perhaps a little apprehension, shows in the faces of Anson, Hindon and Minden candidates and their supporters as the first results in last Monday's municipal election are posted on the board. While final results were not known until after 11:30 p.m., the early trends carried through all polls. Complete results from races throughout Haliburton County and north Victoria County are included in this week's edition of The Times.

Hydro re-organization plans expected this week

A spokesperson for Ontario Hydro told The Times November 18 that as yet no decisions have been made regarding staffing reductions in this area.

Ontario Hydro has announced it intends to amalgamate the Lakeland Hydro operations — Tweed, Bancroft, and Minden — with neighbouring utilities.

Minden will be amalgamated with the Parry-Sound Muskoka operations, while the other two Lakeland branches will be consolidated within the Trent Hydro service system.

Up to 20 Hydro workers, including some from the Minden office, could be out of work as a result of the decision.

When contacted November 18 at the Belleville Hydro office where the decision was being discussed, Lakeland Hydro utility manager Dan Roberts said Hydro has yet to decide what positions will be affected by the re-organization.

He does, however, expect a decision within a week.

Drug Awareness Week targets attitudes of responsible drinkers

Over 160 were in attendance for the opening ceremonies of Drug Awareness Week at the Stanhope Community Centre November 11.

Among other events, Brian Mitchell from the Smart Choices campaign was on hand to introduce the program, which is designed to inform the public about responsible drinking.

The week is also used as a time to provide information on the dangers of drug abuse.

Michelle Bromley is chairperson of the Haliburton County Community Action Group on Alcohol and Drugs. Bromley says the Smart Choices campaign is primarily aimed at responsible drinkers.

"There's lots of good information on what is responsible drinking," says Bromley. "The program is aimed at people who are already low-risk drinkers. It's not aimed at people who are experiencing problems because of their drinking. It is for the 60 to 68 percent of the population who drink responsibly."

"So the goal of the program," she continued, "is to maintain a responsible attitude toward alcohol consumption and to ensure that there are no risks or problems."

Closing ceremonies for Drug Awareness Week were held November 19 at the Minden Arena and included a hockey game between the high school team (the HHSS Redmen) and a team iced by the Ontario Provincial Police. Proceeds from the event will be donated to the Ontario Students Against Impaired Driving and the Hospital for Sick Children Foundation.

Winning smiles

With the final election results fresh on the board behind them, newly elected Anson, Hindon and Minden representatives strike a winning pose before starting their three year term. Clockwise: seated Reeve Jean Anthon, School Board Trustee Wendy Laurantaye, Councillors Grant Plooard, Daryl Moore and Jerry Rome and Deputy Reeve Lewis Stevens. Also elected Monday night were School Board Trustees Bryan Kernohan and Wally Bunn. Everyone, except Moore, had served as elected officials during the past term.

Jean Lacey

This newspaper and the community lost a good friend with the passing of Jean Lacey on November 6, 1994. Jean was 70 years of age.

She was probably best known to our readers as the compiler of the Kids Korner, a weekly feature which included a word puzzle and a cheery selection of riddles. While the feature was aimed at the younger set, the puzzle attracted a regular following among adults as well who enjoyed the challenge of finding the words hidden in the jumble of letters.

Jean will also be remembered for her tireless involvement in our community. She was a member of the Minden Women's Institute and held the office of president of the organization when she died. She was active with the Anglican Church Women of St. Paul's and a member of the advisory board at the church. Jean was a life member and charter member of the Minden Lioness Club and a former member of the Minden Agricultural Society. She also served on the social club of the Staunworth Terrace Apartments where she lived for the past five years. Always a willing volunteer, Jean could be found at many community events, working quietly behind the scenes.

One endearing memory of Jean which will stay with us for years, is of her contribution to the Canada Day family picnic held to mark the nation's 125th anniversary. Jean volunteered to ice the giant birthday cake. With pails of red and white icing, she lathered the sweet topping onto the three foot by five foot cake, crowning it with a maple leaf and birthday greeting. Finishing just in time for the cake-cutting ceremony, she looked a bit like the cake herself, with dabs of icing from head to foot.

In the last few years Jean was challenged by health problems that would have crushed the spirit of many individuals. However she always emerged smiling and eager to get on with life. Her closest friend and companion, Jeanne Sears, summed up Jean's attitude to life and the world. "Being around her is like a big hug. She is a wonderful friend."

Jean is survived by six children and many grand and great-grandchildren. She was laid to rest November 9 at the Minden Cemetery

New Minden reeve expects smooth transition

Elected reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden, Jeanne Anthon, says she expects the new council should work well together.

"I think the transition to the new council should be fairly smooth and quick," she says, "considering there's only one new person at the table. I expect that person (councillor Daryl Moore) having been very involved in the business and development activities around the community should be fairly comfortable coming to the table... His past experiences and expertise will allow him to catch up fairly quickly."

Anthon says the priorities in the first few months will likely be organizing community committees and doing the groundwork for establishing an industrial park in the Minden area.

"I'm hoping that the members of the community will respond to our need for committee activity and representation," said Anthon. "I personally feel that community committees are very important, that a lot of the decisions at the municipal level are driven by community will, and that's the way it should be. And an important way to become a part of community activities is through the committee."

"I of course also have to pull together a committee with regard to an industrial consideration for this municipality," she said. "I think that will take some time. There's probably a lot of background information that should be investigated considering what had gone on before — other municipalities' experiences, and of course what the Ministry of Environment and Energy's requirements might be, just to see how feasible this whole thing can be."

Anthon says she also hopes to be able to develop closer relationships with other municipal governments during the coming term.

"I would like to meet very soon with some of the other municipalities," she said. "One thing I have noted in my past three years on the municipal council is we never — except for one coming together when one of the provincial ministers came to town — we never ever got together."

"I think that's kind of sad," she continued, "because we should be helping to break through some of these so called differences — boundary differences etcetera. I think that's one of the first steps to take — to bring all the politicians within this county together and talk about mutual concerns and processes to alleviate some of the problems. I think that should help turn around some of the attitudes."

In Anson, Hindon and Minden 2,056 (or 31.3 percent) of 6,601 eligible voters showed up to cast ballots.

Dysart et al reeve Murray Fearrey says he expects to be able to work well with the incoming council.

"I'm looking forward to it," said Fearrey. "We've got some new people and they seem very interested, so I'm looking forward to a good council and working together."

"There's the normal time period that it's going to take for new people to catch up on projects that have been ongoing that aren't finished," continued Fearrey, "so there's going to be a learning experience for everybody."

Fearrey ran unopposed for the reeve position, and was acclaimed to the post. He has previously served on the council and as reeve.

Fearrey also filled in on the last council after the election of Chris Hodgson in the provincial by-election. Hodgson's election (he was then reeve of Dysart) had left the post vacant.

Fearrey says one major issue Dysart council will have to deal with concerns the proposed sewer extension, intended to serve the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog, as far west as the Pinestone Inn.

The sewer extension is a major project with a bottom line in the millions of dollars no matter how council proceeds. Projections released by the engineering and accounting firms hired for the project, suggest that, should the entire undertaking be built, the total capital cost would be slightly over $9 million, but available infrastructure grants, and the option of building only the less expensive portions of the line could take some of the sting out of that price tag.

Among other complications, private landowners on the north shore have protested that the expense of hooking on to the line will be too high. Dysart council has already heard from one coalition — of persons living on a private drive where the costs are particularly high — asking that the section of line along their road not be built.

After the election Fearrey said, "That the sewer line has to be dealt with right away in terms of choosing a consultant and dealing with individuals along the line."

"Other than that," he continued, "I don't think there's a lot of money and a lot of new projects that are being planned."

Ward two in Dysart was decided by a margin of three votes after a recount November 17. Dennis Casey beat incumbent Gerald Walker by 358 votes to 355. The count for Walker before the recount was 356 votes.

Approximately 23 percent of Dysart's 12,953 eligible voters participated in the election.

New reeve for Stanhope Township

Newly elected Stanhope reeve Jock Mavor says water and ice rescue will be the first major issue his council will have to address.

"The major item on people's minds," says Mavor, "seems to be water and ice rescue. I intend to pursue that very vigorously, to at least get established at the first level of water and ice rescue, because I feel we have to give our firemen — who are volunteers — the utmost support of council."

The issue had come up several times at the Stanhope all-candidates' meeting. The previous Stanhope council had passed a resolution August 12, 1992 barring the fire department from participating in rescues on ice or water. This in turn had seemed to be primarily in response to a July 1990 incident in which a Port Colborne volunteer firefighter drowned during a rescue attempt. The Ministry of Labour had charged the fire chief in that case for failing to provide appropriate training and to take appropriate precautions.

The ministry actually lost the case. And Carol Moffat, who ran in the election for councillor, and who had investigated the issue in her capacity as a reporter for The Times, told the all-candidates' meeting that all council actually had to do to avoid going to court over such an incident was to implement a standard operating procedure and provide training to the firefighters.

Level one — or land based rescues — said Moffat, require minimal equipment and training. And currently, Moffat and others had said, barring the fire department from doing the rescues effectively abandoned anyone who fell in the water and got into trouble.

Mavor had said at the all-candidates' meeting that if elected he would push for the necessary legislation, training, insurance and equipment to allow the department to do the rescues.

As for other business, Mavor said, "I think that the rest of the stuff is just good common sense and stewardship of the taxpayers' money, and trying to follow up on the mandate that they've given me, to represent them in all matters pertaining to the community." "It's a great community to live in," said Mavor, "and I intend to see that it stays that way."

Mavor also said he expected to be able to work smoothly with the elected council, as he has worked with all of them previously, and feels he knows them well.

"I think we'll be able to work in very very close harmony," he said.

Voter turnout for the election was 16.7 percent. Mavor, who has previously served on the council, beat incumbent reeve Fred Gardner by 422 votes to 292.

Stanhope Reeve Fred Gardner, left, offered his congratulations to Jock Mavor when the tally was complete Monday evening at the Stanhope Municipal office. Mavor, who has served as councillor in a previous term, was successful in his challenge for the township's top post.

Snowdon voters returned reeve George Simmons to the council, with 346 votes to 208 over challenger Russ Duhaime.

Simmons was hunting during the week of November 13, and could not be contacted for post-election comment before press time.

Duhaime had been rather specifically critical during the campaign of Simmons' conduct — particularly at the county level. As a Times editor, Duhaime had covered county affairs. As a candidate for reeve, he criticized his opponent for being uncooperative with his fellow reeves, and for supporting the reinstatement of county management meetings.

The management meetings, which were terminated under Chris Hodgson's term as warden, had been closed to the public. Critics of the policy of holding the closed meetings said that important decisions on county affairs were made therein, and that the meetings should have been open.

Duhaime levelled this latter criticism of his opponent at the October 27 Snowdon all-candidates' meeting, but it went unanswered.

Simmons, however, told The Times in a later interview that though he supported reinstating the meetings, he did not feel they should be closed to the public.

He felt the meetings should be reinstated, he said, to avoid deadlock at the county level.

The previous Snowdon council had also come under criticism for a decision — made at the last meeting of the council — to renovate a building on a recently purchased parcel of land, for use as a municipal building. Duhaime, had said that though the decision had been made by the outgoing council, it would have to be carried through — and paid for — under the auspices of the new council.

Acclaimed deputy-reeve Dwain Wruth defended the decision, however, saying getting the municipality's office equipment out of the basement at the current facility would save money in the long run.

Lutterworth reeve ready

Lutterworth's new reeve Jim McMahon says he expects the newly elected council to work well together.

"What with having three veterans and two new faces, it won't be something to worry about," says McMahon. "And both new people seem anxious to learn."

He says he doesn't feel Lutterworth council has any particularly difficult issues to deal with. There is, however, the matter of the infrastructure grants for three road projects, which he says can be expected to take up some time.

As far as the county level is concerned, McMahon, who is also county warden, said, "The people that are going to be on county council bring with them a variety of different experiences, which should be an asset."

County council will contain a number of new faces this year — and a number of old faces returning for yet another term. Murray Fearrey and Bill Davis of Dysart replaced an incumbent reeve and deputy reeve respectively, but both have served on the county council previously. Anson, Hindon and Minden reeve Jeanne Anthon, Stanhope reeve Jock Mavor, and Glamorgan reeve Elva Bates — among others — will be serving their first terms at county council.

Perhaps most interesting to watch will be deliberations over a county official plan and the building of a new county building. A number of the newly elected or acclaimed representatives to council have expressed strong opinions about both these issues.

Currently a number of municipalities have their own official plans, and representatives from some of these have expressed the opinion that, since they have their own plan in place, they do not feel their ratepayers' money should finance putting one in place for the entire county — which they say primarily serves those municipalities which as yet have no plan of their own.

Said McMahon, "I guess the main issue will be health care — in what direction we're going to go on it. Another issue will be the new county building — or an addition to our existing building. I think that we're going to have to do a cost efficiency study on our existing building and see whether it's feasible to add on to it."

"Bill 163 and the planning act," said McMahon, "is going to have to be another issue — we're going to have to seriously look at some form of official plan for the county."

Random musings

The votes are all in and counted, The celebrating is over. Now it's time to get down to the business at hand.

However, before we leave the election behind it might be valuable to take some time to reflect on how fortunate we are to be offered a choice in those who will shape the future of our communities. There are many places in this world where the ballot box is not the common method of choosing leaders. Bullets, bombs, intimidation and terror are the governing tools, not the simple X marked on a piece of paper.

In our comfortable setting, it is easy to forget how important the concept of universal franchise is to an orderly and peaceful society. A tip of the hat to those who offered their community a choice last Monday and to those who saw it as their obligation and duty to keep the process alive.

Businesses throughout the Highlands had visitors Friday morning as teachers from the high school left the classroom. It was part of a professional development day. The aim of the exercise was to allow the educators to see first hand what many of their graduates will be facing when they leave the school behind forever.

We applaud the teachers and administration for taking this unique step to build a better understanding with the working community. It is sometimes difficult for some people to see the connection between the education process and what takes place in the so called "real world". If the education system is to serve the needs of its students and the community which it supports, (and which supports it) this type of communication is vital.

It is a program worth repeating. Perhaps it should be reversed as well, allowing those who look to the local education process for potential employees, an opportunity to experience the challenges faced by our educators and students.

It shouldn't be the case, but once again we are delightfully surprised with the wealth of talent in our "little" community. We are referring to the current musical production of the Highlands Little Theatre, Brigadoon. A quick count of the names listed in the program shows that close to 100 were involved with the sterling effort. Kudos to the cast and crew for a job well done and to the hundreds of patrons who support their efforts.

Alice and the Mad Hatter

Editor:

Watching the machinations of Canadian Politicians, attempting to deal with constituents' concerns regarding rising violent crime and an increasingly impotent justice system, is a bit like witnessing a tea party with Alice and the Mad Hatter!

Chretien and Rock would have us believe that registering or seizing every legal gun will solve the problem, while the John Howard Society and similar bleeding heart outfits think we should just give criminals a stern talking to!

While watching the news in the U.S. a few weeks ago, I noted with interest a U.S. Politician who was campaigning on the premise that he should be re-elected because he had spent his last four year term doing absolutely nothing! It's too bad our politicians hadn't taken a page out of his book!

The simple fact is that in the past 25 years our politicians, mostly Liberal, have gotten rid of the lash and Capital Punishment, brought in early parole, tied the hands of the Police, saddled us with the Young Offenders Act, drastically reduced sentences and given all the rights to the criminals at the victim's expense. Now we even hear rumblings of a Black Justice system and criminal exemptions on religious grounds, duck Henry! In creating a justice system with no deterrent value, what did these mental midgets think would happen? By the way Herb, Capital Punishment is a deterrent, because dead you can't parole them to kill someone else!

I think gun owners better hang on to their guns at the rate these idiots are going. You're eventually going to need them to feel safe walking down the street.

Keith W. Stata, Kinmount.

P.S. Some people may maintain that the use of the word idiot is excessive, however I don't think it begins to describe the incompetence of anyone responsible for a law which affords a 15 year old boy one year in reform school for killing a 12 year old girl by beating her over the head 68 times with a wrench.

There are no guarantees with restructuring

The following is a commentary prepared by Paul Pagnuelo, a spokesman for the Ontario Taxpayers Federation, based in Ajax.

Chances are, sooner or later, it's coming to your community.

Amalgamation, restructured county, regional government. Call it what you want. It means the same thing.

Are bigger, more powerful local governments the solution to reducing costs?

The idea dates back to the days of Woodstock, a quarter of a century ago. That's when the policy works at Queen's Park began messing with the notion. Things would just work a lot better by vaporizing local municipalities and gathering up the remains into a larger regional body.

But ask someone who has had a taste of regional government. Chances are they'll tell you they hate it. Because they found it harder...not easier...to influence the thinking of their elected officials. And in a democracy, that's not the way things are supposed to work.

Regional councils tend to be domineered by the largest urban municipality. By having more regional councillors, they end up with a far greater say in how the critical issues are decided. The bigger urban players aren't noted for being overwhelmingly compassionate toward their small rural cousins.

Regional governments are also known for growing bigger bureaucracies. And this means more spending and higher taxes.

The con job is getting people to believe the opposite.

Take North Dumfries in the Rural Municipality of Cambridge as an example. In three years taxes jumped through the roof by 85%.

When the Region of Haldimand-Norfolk was created in 1975, its annual budget was $18 million. Its payroll consisted of 207 employees. Last year, its budget had swollen to $76 million and the number of staff had mushroomed to 780. In less than two decades, spending had skyrocketed by 420% and its tax consuming bureaucracy had grown by 375%. And supporting these huge increases was a population base which had grown by only a mere 10,000 people.

Victoria County last flirted with the idea of amalgamation in 1991. But the silence was deafening when questions were asked about cost savings and lower taxes. Quite simply, they weren't there to be had.

Municipalities are not the high cost creatures that the spin doctors of regional government would like us to believe.

The fact is that municipal taxes make up only about 20% of the typical property tax bill in most communities. The lion's share usually goes to the local school board and the rest to county government.

The steps to big regional government are usually spoon-fed to communities in small bite-sized pieces.

An amalgamation here...an amalgamation there. Gradually, regional government becomes a reality.

Despite their warts, municipal governments are the most democratic and accessible form of government we have today. They're closest to the people. Most of us know our local councillors. And we can usually reach them a lot easier than our MPs or MPPs.

The cure to the ills of democracy is more democracy, not less. And the solution to out-of-control government spending and higher taxes isn't a structure that's going to be more inefficient than the one it's replacing.

The fashionable buzz words like efficiency, lower costs and more effectiveness are a great way to sell a gullible public into buying amalgamation. The problem is it doesn't come with a money-back guarantee.

Your thoughts, in a letter to the editor, are always welcome. Write Box 97, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0

Correction

In the letter to the editor from Marjaana Young, published in the November 7 Times, (page 10, headline "Not satisfied with the response") the second sentence in the third to last paragraph should have read "And for some reason I take exception to being treated like an imbecile by someone whose syntax is as obnoxious as her message is insipid," rather than "And for some reason I take exception to being treated like an imbecile by someone who is as obnoxious as her message is insipid," which was how it appeared in the printed copy. The Times regrets the error.

And in the article on the Women on Snow fundraiser last week (page 6, issue date November 14, headline "Women ride for charity"), an organizing official was quoted as saying six groups of 18 women will be involved in the event. Organizers say the event will actually involve 18 groups of ten women.

Give these dogs a bone

Watchdog: a dog kept to guard your home, usually by sleeping where a burglar would awaken the household by falling over him.

No question about it, dogs do not get the respect they deserve. Pet owners will sing the praises of their canaries, tropical fish and chocolate-point Siamese, but Fido? He's just the dumb old pooch scratching his fleas under the kitchen table.

Well...correction. Dogs do get some respect — from the Folks at Ralston-Purina Canada. Ralston-Purina makes a buck or two selling dog and cat chow and back in 1968 they decided to show their appreciation to their customers by opening the Purina Hall of Fame. Since then, a total of 80 Canadian animals have been inducted into the Hall.

Sixty-three of those animals have been dogs.

All kinds of dogs — German Shepherd, Black Labs, Fox Terriers, Cocker Spaniels and just plain mutts. The Hall of Fame dogs come in large, medium and pint-size but they all have one thing in common: a heart the size of Skydome.

Three dogs made the cut this year

— Belle, Sam and Nellie.

These are their stories:

Nellie is a six-year-old Alsatian who likes nothing better than following the tractor when Ken Emerson goes out to check the fields on his tobacco farm near Tillsonburg, Ontario.

That's what Nellie was doing one spring afternoon two years ago, when suddenly her master's tractor swerved off the road and up a steep slope, where it bucked, heaved and fell on its side.

Ken didn't have time to get out of the way. The tractor rolled right over him.

And there was Ken Emerson, a 78-year-old man with a crushed pelvis and broken ribs, lying in the dirt in the middle of nowhere.

He worked his jackknife out of his pocket, cut a strip from his shirt and tied it to Nellie's collar. "Go home" he croaked.

Nellie did. She trotted the whole three kilometres back and alerted Ken's wife. Ken was found, rushed to the hospital and recovered. Without Nellie, he'd have been dead.

Sam is an eight-year-old German Shepherd that saved her owner from an icy death. Phyllis McLeod was strolling along the banks of the Credit River one late winter day. Suddenly the ice slab she was on crumbled and she was up to her waist in swiftly flowing meltwater that was pulling her under the ice. She

by Arthur Black

screamed for Sam. The dog came and crouched beside her, whimpering. Phyllis grabbed Sam's collar and yelled "Pull, girl, pull!" Sam pulled, her claws scratching and skittering ice chips as she strained.

She hauled her mistress up and onto the ice. "My friends could never understand why I would keep such a big dog that sheds so much," says Phyllis. "I've always known that Sam was special."

So is Belle, a one-year-old Labrador Retriever that belongs to Ken and Nancy Knickle in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia.

One morning in March of 1993, every parents' nightmare came and perched on Ken and Nancy Knickle's shoulders. Their three year old son Ken Junior was missing, along with Belle, the dog. As Ken Senior crossed a bridge that spanned the Lunenburg Harbour Channel, he saw something that turned his blood to ice — he saw Belle in the water, hanging on with her paws to an icy ledge.

There was no sign of his son.

Frantically, Ken sprawled down the bank and hauled Belle out of the water. Then he saw why Belle hadn't moved. He spotted the sleeve of his son's snowsuit right where the dog had been. He lunged for it and pulled an unconscious half-frozen child from the channel.

For two days Ken Junior lay in a coma at the local hospital. Miraculously, he recovered completely — even though he'd been in the water for almost 30 minutes.

"We have so many people to thank," says Nancy Knickle, "including Belle, who started a chain reaction of events that gave us our son back."

Indeed. And three cheers for Ralston-Purina Canada for honouring the Belles and the Nellies and the Sams who remind us, year in and year out, just why we call them Man's Best Friend.

In fact, make that three cheers and a 21-bark salute.

Redmen win 2 out of 2 against Peterborough teams

by Andrew Milne

The Haliburton Redmen hockey team won two out of two against teams from Peterborough last week.

November 15 the team travelled to the Kinsmen Arena in Peterborough to play the Thomas A. Stewart team, and beat them by a score of 6-4.

November 16 the team was at home, facing Adam Scott. The game was nothing less than a rout, with a final score of 12-1 for Haliburton.

Haliburton 6 — Thomas A. Stewart 4

The Redmen were well ahead halfway through the first game. At 9:44 into the second period, the score was 5-1 for the Haliburton squad, with three goals by Mark Stamp and two by Mark Morissette.

But then the team seemed to tire, with the next three goals going to Thomas A. Stewart, at 10:27 and 11:21 into the second period, and at 12:54 into the third.

Morissette put one more in late in the third, to make the final score 6-4 for Haliburton.

Haliburton captain Jonathan Bishop assisted twice.

Said coach Ron Yake of the first game, "We had a limited number of players — we had two lines and four defence — basically because of injuries, one guy hunting, another sick... and they had a full bench. But we put together a good game. The guys worked hard, and they were tired at the end of it, but they put in a good game and a good effort."

Haliburton 12 — Adam Scott 1

The score was much lower through most of the second game than the final score suggests. Late in the second period, Haliburton was ahead by 3-1, with goals by Kevin Morissette, Dennis Woods, and Mark Morissette.

But Jonathon Bishop tucked one in with 2:29 left in the second period, and then another with only seven seconds left, making the score 5-1 going into the third.

Third period goals for Haliburton were scored by Mark Morissette, Stamp, Kevin Morissette, and Josh Burk.

All told, the Morissette brothers scored six of the Haliburton goals (four by Kevin), assisted three times by Tim Keefer.

Stamp contributed heavily to the scoring efforts as well, with a total of two goals and an assist. Jackie

The brothers Morissette in action, November 16. That's Mark in front of the net (number 6), with Kevin in the foreground (number 10). The Morissettes scored six of Haliburton's 12 goals in the game against Adam Scott.

Morrison also had three assists, and Chris Eskelin, two. Woods contributed one assist, late in the third period, in addition to his first period goal.

The game against Adam Scott marks Kevin Morissette's first appearance this season. Morissette had injured his knee during the football season.

Yake said it was good to have him playing.

Said Yake, "It was a lot closer game than what the score indicates, because it was 3-1 just around 2 minutes left in the second period. So it was closer than what the score was, but I think we did dominate the game, and certainly had the most scoring chances. The addition of Kevin Morissette — that's the first game he's played — certainly made a difference. There's a lot of scoring power there when he gets on the ice, along with his brother Mark and Tim Keefer, who also had a good game."

Officials handed out 50 minutes of penalties at the home game — 22 of which went to the Haliburton team.

Minden club starts junior curling Junior curlers will have an opportunity to get an early start on the game thanks to the efforts of the Minden Curling Club.

Starting December 1, the club is introducing a junior curler program which includes instruction and ice time for games. According to one of the organizers, Zelda Cooper, the purpose of the program is to offer youths between the ages of 12 and 20 a chance to learn the rules and the skills necessary to allow them to enjoy the sport. The youth league will start December 1 and continue through to March 23. The sessions are scheduled for Thursday afternoons from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Minden Curling Club. There is a $25 fee which covers the training sessions and ice time. The only equipment required is a clean pair of running shoes. Youths who have access to a curling broom and a slider are asked to bring those along. Cooper has asked experienced curlers who have used brooms and sliders which they can donate for the program to contact her at 286-2615.

At the left, junior curler Ryan Sisson gets some pointers from two of the instructor involved in the program, Dana Kinsman and Bob Pollard.

OFSAA Statistics

At three games into the high school hockey season, three Haliburton players lead the scoring race for the league.

Statistics released by OFSAA as of November 18 show Mark Stamp, Mark Morissette, and Jonathan Bishop of the Haliburton team lead the league. Stamp has seven goals, four assists, while Morissette has six goals, four assists and Bishop has three goals, six assists.

Morissette's brother Kevin, who missed the first two games due to a knee injury sustained during the football season is fifth in the league after his first game — with four goals, four assists.

The team is tied for the lead in its division with IE Weldon from Lindsay. Both teams have won three of three games so far.

OMHA Atom Games
Minden's Atom division team won one of three games between November 5 and 13.

The team lost a home game against Woodville November 5 by a score of 7-1, and a second home game against Beaverton November 12 7-4.

November 13 the team travelled to Bobcaygeon, and took the game by a score of 5-3.

Coach Barry Shaw said of the third game, "[it was] the best game in our last four. The players were getting tired of losing and played a smart, disciplined game."

OMHA Midget Games

Minden's Midget division team tied 5-5 with Woodville November 12, and beat Fenelon Falls 6-2 November 13.

Referees handed out 1 hour 4 minutes in penalties against Minden and 59 minutes against Fenelon Falls in the second game, as well as several game misconducts against both squads for fighting in the second and third periods. The game was called at 9:00 pm with 8 minutes and 54 seconds to play.

'Fish Whiskers' first feature of Children's Concert Series

The first concert in the Haliburton County Children's Concert Series takes place 2:00 pm November 27 at Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden.

Fish Whiskers by the Iguanodon Theatre Company is a black light puppet show billed (by the Edmonton Journal's Liz Nicholls) as "a piscine romance with an a-fin-ity (so to speak) with Romeo and Juliet".

Peppered with puns and choreographed to make the most of the black light medium, Fish Whiskers is described by its author as being about "differences, the individual and the other, in a multicultural society".

The plot, simply put, is that Angel, a pretty fish who feels self-conscious about her whiskers, meets Sockeye and the two become friends. But Angel's uncle Balthazar thinks different fish shouldn't mix.

The entire series consists of four concerts. In addition to Fish Whiskers there are Judy & David's Jumpin' Up & Down (January 22), the Ontario Ballet Theatre's presentation of The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe (February 26), and Kirk and Magoo's We are the Dinosaurs (April 2).

Tickets are $17 for the entire series or $8 per person at the door. Subscriptions are available at the Master's Bookstore in Haliburton, both CHACE Place locations, and at the Storeroom in Minden.

Latest allotment, $89,000Two Lutterworth projects approved for funding

Two projects worth $89,388 in the Township of Lutterworth have been approved under the Canada/Ontario Infrastructure Works program, Municipal Affairs Minister Ed Phillip, Victoria-Haliburton MP John O'Reilly and Reeve Cam Ecclestone announced.

Funding will be used to upgrade Buller Road and Davis Lake Road and Hunter Creek Road. These projects, which will create an estimated 42 person-weeks of employment, should be completed by June, 1995.

"Road reconstruction will help create jobs, while improving road safety and reducing maintenance costs for Lutterworth" said Mr. Phillip. "These projects, along with the others previously announced, help get people back to work and gives the local economy a boost."

"Creating jobs and ensuring that essential infrastructure meets the needs of our residents are the goals of the Canada/Ontario Infrastructure Works program. These projects will not only create local jobs, but commuters in the Township of Lutterworth will also benefit from improved and safer roads," said Mr. O'Reilly.

"The residents of our community will benefit from the upgrading of these roads and the municipality's future maintenance costs will be reduced. We are happy to be able to provide more jobs in the construction field," said Mr. Ecclestone.

These projects are in addition to the two projects worth $63,000 announced in June.

Canada/Ontario Infrastructure Works is a $2.1 billion shared-cost program designed to create jobs through local priority projects which will improve the province's infrastructure and therefore its competitive position. Canada/Ontario and local partners are each contributing one-third of the project funding.

The program, which is expected to create up to 37,000 direct and indirect jobs, is a positive example of the federal, provincial and local levels of government working co-operatively to foster economic development and growth.

Charting the results

All eyes were on Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal staff member Jo-Ellen Ingram Monday night as she posted the first results from the municipal election. The public was invited to watch the tally in the municipal council chambers while one floor below in the office, scrutineers were busy counting the votes. Over 31 percent of the eligible voters cast ballots in Anson, Hindon and Minden.

Uncovering the delights of Brigadoon

It may be a village that appears out of the Scottish Highlands mist only once every 100 years, but fortunately, here in the Highlands of Haliburton, it is appearing five times.

Brigadoon, the Lerner and Loewe musical, has been brought delightfully to the stage by Highlands Little Theatre. Directed by Curtis Eastmure and Doug Brohm, produced by Craig Saunders, with choreography by Ted Carson and under the musical direction of Melissa Stephens, the play relates the story of a village which makes its appearance for a single day every 100 years. A spell was cast on the community by a kindly minister, to protect it from the evils of the world. He felt that if the inhabitants were exposed to the outside world for only a single day each century, little harm could come to their way of life.

Brigadoon becomes linked with the present however, when two lost hunters, visiting from America, stumble into the village during one of its appearances. At first confused by the quaint village in a postcard setting, the visitors are told the story of the magical place. One hunter falls in love with a lass from the village and must choose between disappearing with his love and the village into the mist at the end of the day or continuing his obviously tedious existence in today's world. The resolution of the play hinges on his choice and how he makes it.

As the play follows the growing relationship between these two lovers, events in the village unfold, further entangling the hunters in the lives of the Brigadoon residents.

Veteran John Miller and newcomer (to Highlands musical theatre) Cathy Cox, as Tommy and Fiona, lead the cast through an lilted repertoire of songs. The pair is particularly strong when sharing the harmony in several of the songs including, The Heather on the Hill, Almost Like Being in Love and From This day On. The two are obviously at ease with the music and are completely at home with their roles as the lost hunter and Brigadoon lass and soon to be lovers. The two are equally strong with their musical solo performances.

The musical is a light-hearted affair with some serious undertones. Christine Archer as Meg provides several inspiring moments of musical comedy with her two solos. They both relate the rather lusty side of the wench's life, recounting the many men who courted her in the The Love of My Life and the rather Bacchanalian excess of her Mother's Wedding Day...as the song notes, all the fact she tells are true, because she was there.

Tom Robinson as Tommy's hunting companion Jeff, is equally amusing. He is not one to take life too seriously and tends to find comfort in the bottle. School master, Mr. Lundie, is ably played by Larry Alford who manages to find a perfect balance of seriousness (to suit his role as village "father") and "twinkle in the eye" light-heartedness.

It is a pleasure to see the large number of high school students contributing to the production of Brigadoon. Sprinkled through the cast and crew they have made a valuable contribution to its success. In particular, Bryn Gray has taken on the demanding role of Charlie, an eager bridegroom. Hats off to him for his two solo performances: I'll Be Going Home with Bonnie Jean and Come to Me Bend to Me. High school students Loreena Rogers as the blushing bride Jean and Shaun Turner, the rejected suitor, also turn in able performances in roles that demand a great deal.

The chorus, Highland dancers and village characters round out the cast of Brigadoon. They help to set the scene at the opening with the rousing village market song Down on MacConnachy Square.

Highlands Little Theatre veterans Joel Levis and Heather Scully make cameo appearances.

One of the highlights of the play is the backdrop depicting the Highlands of Scotland. It was created especially for this performance by Eddy Hunter, a professional stage designer and builder in Carshalton, Surrey, England. An acquaintance of stage manager Caryl Douglas, he offered to design and paint the scene.

As usual numerous individuals are involved in a production of this magnitude. Unfortunately it is impossible to mention them all. Suffice to say the community is richer through the contributions these people have made to the success of this musical production.

There is but one unfortunate aspect to all of this.

As these words are printed, there are only two performances of Brigadoon left, this Friday and Saturday nights. The mythical village of Brigadoon and this delightful musical are soon to vanish from our midst and it will likely be years before it emerges again in these Highlands.

John Miller and Cathy Cox share the spotlight in the production of Brigadoon.

Bryn Gray is one of a number of high school students who have taken on demanding roles

Chris Archer as Meg tries her not too subtle charms on a lost hunter, Jeff, played by Tom Robinson.

HHSS teachers building bridges

(HHSS teachers stepped out of their classrooms for a half day last week and into the county's business community. The teachers spent the time participating in the regular work routine at each of the locations, encountering the challenges many of their students will face after graduation. The Times welcomed two HHSS staff members, Bob Penfold and Laura Willis to our office. Perhaps in anticipation of their assignment to a newspaper office, they came prepared with a press release outlining the goal of the outreach program.)

Teachers Bob Penfold and Laura Willis explored the working world outside the confines of HHSS. They spent Friday morning at our office assisting in the production of this edition of The Times.

We live in an ever-changing world and as teachers, we sometimes feel isolated from many of the changes in the workplace; changes that our students may be encountering on a daily basis. As a staff at HHSS, we decided to take the first step in establishing contact with the community by encountering the world of business as an employee for half a day. We hope that our visitations will foster a stronger liaison between our staff and the community it serves.

Teachers have chosen a variety of activities to be involved in this morning, as a result of our Professional Development focus on school and the community which was developed from school-based planning.

In 1988 Gary Brohman introduced the school based planning model to Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. The literature on this model stated that if you empower people in decision making, they will take ownership of the decision and better implement it. The staff's first focus was on planning and implementing the Code of Behaviour, a process which took two years. Also with this project came the emphasis on the school credo: Respect, Responsibility and Commitment.

In the spring of 1994 the staff went back to the drawing board and agreed at a staff meeting that our next focus would be School and Community because:

1. Teachers wanted the community to know what staff and students are doing at HHSS.
2. Teachers wanted to experience what business people in our community are doing.
3. The staff need to know employers' expectations of our students.
4. The staff would like to develop a liaison between the school and community.

As a result of stepping into the world of work today, we will begin a partnership between the school and community to better prepare our students for the future.

It's your (smart) choice

Smart Choices is a comprehensive alcohol education program designed specifically for the adult public. Smart Choices helps prevent alcohol problems by providing drinkers with moderation guidelines and by identifying harmful drinking practices and the associated consequences. The campaign unfolds through seven themes.

For people who choose to drink, knowing exactly where to draw the line is essential to avoiding problems. Having no more than 12 drinks per week and no more than 4 drinks any day for men and 3 drinks on any day for women will protect most drinkers from any problems. These guidelines are upper limits, not targets, and people who drink less lower their risks even further.

The Rule of Thumb theme introduces the two most important guidelines for avoiding health, social and legal problems which can result from excessive drinking. Other guidelines are introduced throughout the campaign. As a whole, these guidelines tell drinkers everything they need to know to "Make every drink a smart choice."

There was some serious fooling around this week at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. Principal Peter Forgrave, left, donned a clown costume day on Tuesday to help mark the students' success in a fund raising effort. To encourage the youngsters in the sale of magazine subscription, he offered to become a clown for a day when sales reached $16,000. Other staff members have also promised to provide some interesting encouragement for the sales effort. The goal of this year's sale is $30,000. Noting the progress of sales on the chart in the front hallway are student coordinators Amy Brandon and Maria Perrott.

Branch 636 hosts fiftieth anniversary dinner

No factious voice called them unto the field of generous fame

*But the poor consecrated love of home;
No deeper feeling sways us, when it wakes
In all its greatness.*

The Graves of the Patriots -

J.G. Percival.

A moving and unique event took place at Minden Community Centre Saturday, November 12 when Royal Canadian Legion Branch 636 hosted a Veterans' 50th Anniversary Dinner and Dance.

This was a gala affair. The men were splendid in navy and grey. Medals, long relegated to the darkness of bureau drawers, shone as they were proudly displayed on chest after chest. Backs were ramrod straight. Time fell away. Memories flooded in. Every branch of the military was represented.

Anthony Samarillo, first president of the branch, suggested the concept some time ago. It became a reality, through the efforts of Ken Walsh and his hard-working committee.

After a moment of silence for fallen comrades, Padre Father Brian Parker said Grace and asked the Blessing. Comrade Sydney Adamson proposed the Toast to the Queen. The assembly was asked to raise glasses to Legion Branch 636 by Comrade Lloyd Johnson.

Guest speaker, Sally Bonner, Zone Commander, was introduced by branch president Bill Blyth. She spoke of the camaraderie among the troops during wartime and how it has carried over to the members of the Legion. Her speech underlined the steady growth of 636 and stressed the positive side of being a Legion member. Comrade Anthony Samarillo thanked Sally and reminded all that she is a past president of the branch.

The ladies were toasted by Comrade Jack Sykes. Chris Dollo gracefully acknowledged on behalf of all ladies present.

The remainder of the evening was given over to unbridled fun. Doris Brown gave her laugh-provoking recitations and the group re-lived some wartime memories in a sing-a-long accompanied by Mrs. V. Ross on the organ. Music reminiscent of the forties was supplied by George Minors for dancing.

The dinner was excellent. It was swiftly and professionally served by men of 636 who were aided by some well-chosen ladies who drew KP for the evening.

Aileen Blears.

OSAID in actionStudents help promote drug and alcohol awareness

by Misty Bennett,
HHSS student reporter

Students from the high school's OSAID group (Ontario Students Against Impaired Driving) took an active role in helping to promote Drug Awareness Week in the community. Coordinated by the Haliburton County Community Action Group on Alcohol and Drugs, a series of activities was held during the week of November 11 to 19 to educate students and the general public on the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse.

Members of Mr. Stephenson's grade ten art class assisted by placing a number of displays on bulletin boards throughout the school. Creating the displays was a formal part of the class's curriculum this year and assisted OSAID in spreading the message.

The week included opening ceremonies at the Stanhope Community Centre November 11. The kick-off was well supported with skits performed by a variety of groups including the Minden Brownies, Girl Guide troops, and a puppet show presented by Kids on the Block.

During the week, members of the HHSS OSAID group presented informative videos during lunch hour. These videos highlighted the special week and illustrated the dangers of drinking and driving. Sweatshirts and T-shirts with the Drug Awareness Week logo were offered for sale as were tickets to the OPP vs Redmen hockey game played Saturday (November 19) evening in Minden.

The 23 members of OSAID have started planning for the next campaign, Arrive Alive Week, which takes place in May. There will be numerous activities. The group also expressed its appreciation to the community for supporting the awareness campaigns.

Christmas is in the air at Hyland Crest

The weather this morning suggested Christmas will soon be here.

Saturday, John Menzies played his lovely music for us and we truly enjoyed his piano playing and thank John.

Sunday Estella Burch had more reading from our book. We are enjoying it so much and thank you Estella. In the evening, Rev. John Burgess brought us chapel service along with Louise Leonard at the organ.

Monday after breakfast, residents boarded the bus and headed to Lindsay to shop at Zellers. It was a beautiful day. The sun was really warm. There was a volunteer for each resident. They included Jean Robson, Sylvia Thompson, Nancy Hibrant, Barbara Hembruff, Donna Wallace, Dottie Muirhead, Pearl Cowen, Dorie McAllister and Mabel Deacon.

Activities Department, acting as Santas shopped for a gift for each of the 62 residents. We arrived at about 11 a.m. and each resident went with a volunteer. We had a quick lunch and all went our own way through the mall. We arrived home just in time for dinner. Thanks to all the girls who took such good care of us.

In the evening, the Salvation Army from Fenelon Falls came to bring us a service and singing. Grace Coburn sang a solo. Thanks to everyone.

Tuesday morning, chapel service was taken by Pastor Fast accompanied by his guitar. We enjoyed it so much.

Crafts were held in the afternoon. The craft room was filled to capacity with volunteers and residents making articles for the craft show next month.

In the evening, faithful Pearl Cowen assisted us with some cards. Thanks Pearl.

Wednesday morning we had fitness and in the afternoon we had Poet's Corner. We made up a poem about Christmas and Santa, under the guidance of Doris.

Thursday tea party was hosted by the Happy Hackers from Minden. They included Molly McCarthy, Christina Dollo, Marjorie Hamilton, Peggie Barclay, Georgina Deeks and Terry Campbell. Thank you for the lovely lunch ladies. We thank Lee Anne Schlosser for calling bingo in the evening.

Friday morning the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 636 came and gave each resident a poppy. We thank them.

Diane Williams came to play music for us but we were watching the memorial service from Ottawa. Thanks anyway Diane.

At 2 p.m. we had Happy Hour. Cathy Wood played old time records. Some residents danced, others enjoyed watching it. A good time was had by all. Thanks Pearl, Dottie, Bonnie and Cathy.

Lillian Davidson is back at Hyland Crest after a month's stay at Civic Hospital. She is sticking close to bed but is feeling better. Welcome home Lillian.

The ladies auxiliary tea and Christmas bazaar made $325 in sales.

Don't forget the "Funtastic" bazaar in the auditorium December 8, 1994 from 3 to 9 p.m.

Staanworth Court celebrates tenth anniversary

Social gatherings and "ask a question" sessions have kept many of the Staانworth Court residents busy.

Family and friends gathered for an evening out to say good-bye to Em Poole. Emily is our longest-time in residence person but she is saying goodbye to us and moving to Windsor. In the spring she and friend Syd Drew will be getting married. We all wish them the happiest of days.

A large celebration took place at the Court for the tenth birthday of our building. Residents from the Terrace and other citizens joined the party and drank a toast to ten years of community.

We all know how lucky we are when Dorothy Ash volunteers to cook a "stew dinner". Everyone comes hungry and goes back home "well satisfied".

The candidates in the election came together to answer any questions we might need information on to help our decision in Staanworth Court resident Doris Moore slices into the tenth anniversary cake with the help of the non-profit housing corporation representative Ed Pergolas.

Gerry Rome and Doug Campbell came to answer questions about the hospital situation. Our seniors have many questions and worries but answers seem few. We were all encouraged to write to Ruth Grier the Minister of Health stating our worry and urging first class care in Minden.

The new executive of the social club, including Doris Moore as president, Dorothy Ash as secretary and Fern Donnelly as treasurer, are busy planning upcoming events including Christmas events.

Our thoughts and prayers are with Sylvia Howard who has moved into Hyland Crest. We will all keep in touch with her and hope that she will be comfortably settled there.

Some of our more active (?) residents are enjoying the new bowling alleys, but, as of yet, refuse to divulge their scores!

Agnes Mullin, 95, has watched Minden grow

A Minden woman turned 95 November 20.

Agnes Mullin, now living in Staunworth Terrace, was born before the turn of the century. She remembers the great depression. She remembers both world wars.

She remembers when Minden was smaller even than it is now.

"When we moved up here, there was only one light in Minden on the pole," she says. "You'd come through the town and there were just no lights on anywhere."

Mullin and her husband had been operating a store in Toronto prior to moving north to build and then operate a lodge — now Wedgewood Marina.

"I was fed up with the store," said Mullin. "It was nothing but work, work, work."

"Of course a lodge is too."

She relates stories of the early years looking for land to build on, of a freezing cold night in a tiny cabin with snow blowing down the chimney.

In the end, she says, they settled on the Haliburton area because "it was really clean."

Mullin still lives on her own, in her own apartment, and pretty much takes care of herself. At 95, she looks well and is still going strong.

Proof that hard work has its rewards, Agnes Mullin marked her 95th birthday on Sunday.

So what's her secret?

"Hard work," she says.

"It never killed anybody."

November Women's Institute meeting

Jean Cox, vice-president of Minden Women's Institute conducted the November 16 meeting at the Library/Cultural Centre at 2 p.m., with a few well-chosen words about our recently deceased president, Jean Lacey, followed by all repeating the 23rd Psalm and the Lord's Prayer.

The usual opening took place and the Roll Call of "Women in the News" had 18 members responding. We are sending $75 for the Christmas Boxes through Louise Leonard. Irene Moore read her report of sending ten cards for various occasions and we appreciate her great service in this work. The Pennies for Friendship were taken and we are sending a donation in memory of Jean Lacey to Parkhouse F.W.I.O. Offices.

Jeanne Sears, our delegate to the area convention, gave an excellent report and made a small refund on expenses. Later she gave some recent news on immigration, topic of the day and had several questions for all to join in the discussion which followed. Jeanne concluded with several amusing jokes and told us what the initials she had worn meant.

Irene Moore told of the local teas, luncheons and bazaars coming up. She also mentioned that Minden is to be on Channel 10 Cable Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. and also that the County Town Museum Committee is planning Christmas Carols on Friday December 16 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Wee Kirk and also Sunday afternoon, December 18, from 2-4 p.m.

Our next meeting will be a Pot Luck at noon, December 14 at Minden United Church Hall. Please bring your own dishes etc., and a friend to join us. Jeanne Sears, P.R.O.

Booklet helps explain legislation changes

In December 1992, the Consent to Treatment Act, along with two companion pieces, the Advocacy Act and the Substitute Decisions Act, was passed by the Ontario Legislature and received Royal Assent. Proclamation of the Acts is anticipated in early 1995.

To provide better understanding of the legislation, the Ministry of Health has published a booklet called Consent to Treatment/A Guide to the Act. This publication is part of an ongoing information program offered by the ministry, to keep everyone well informed about this significant piece of legislation. Copies of the booklet are now available without charge from your nearest Information Centre in Haliburton or Minden.

Sincere thanks to all those who supported my bid for Councillor on November 14.

I will continue to serve you well for the next term.

Who will feed China?

China's phenomenal economic growth of 40 per cent over the last three years has fuelled an economic goldrush. Team Canada seems to have found a bonanza worth billions. But there's another side to China's "success" as Lester Brown shows in the article "Who will feed China?" (Worldwatch Magazine, Sept/Oct 1994) as "the country's capacity to produce food is projected to shrink due to the massive ongoing conversion of cropland to non farm uses."

Other countries have had similar experiences. "Over the last few decades, conversion of grainland to non-farm uses...has cost Japan 52 per cent of its grainland, South Korea 42 per cent, Taiwan 35 per cent...By 1992, South Korea was importing 64 per cent of its grain, Taiwan 67 per cent and Japan 77 per cent."

Japan is the world's largest importer of grain at 28 million tons a year. China's grain output rose spectacularly to surpass the U.S. at more than 300 million tons by 1984. But the gains in production are blunted by the 14 million people added each year to China's population. That's an increase of 490 million people by 2030. But more people to feed isn't the only issue. "As income rises, one of the first things low-income people do with their money is to diversify their diets...to more meat, milk and eggs." But where will the food come from? In 1978 only seven per cent of China's grain was used for animal feed, by 1990 it was 20 per cent. Already they have almost reached American levels of red meat consumption. What will happen as China begins to consume more from the top end of the food chain?

Doubling egg consumption from 100 per person in 1990 to the government goal of 200 in 2000, "will take an additional 24 million tons of grain, an amount equal to the grain exports of Canada...To raise consumption (of beer) for each adult by just one bottle takes another 370,000 tons of grain."

China's grain growing land is decreasing by one per cent annually, down from 90.8 million hectares in 1990 to an estimated 87.4 million in 1994 because of industrial growth that requires more factories, railroads, housing and roads. In 1994 alone, 16,000 kilometres of new highways were built. Productivity of remaining cropland is threatened by "soil erosion, waterlogging and salting of irrigation systems, air pollution and global warming."

"China's grain production will fall by at least one fifth (or 0.5 per cent a year) between 1990 and 2030...In

by David Suzuki

1990 China produced 329 million tons of grain and consumed 335 million tons." Increased population alone will raise China's demand for grain to 479 million tons in 2030 from 335 million tons in 1990. "Even if China's booming economy produced NO gains in consumption of meat, eggs and beer, a 20-per-cent drop in grain production...would leave a shortfall of 216 million tons, a level that exceeds the world's entire 1993 grain exports of 200 million tons."

A small rise in per-capita grain consumption to 350 kilograms in 35 years from about 300 kilograms at present will increase total demand to 568 million tons of grain, a deficit of 305 million tons! "If grain consumption per person were to rise to 400 kilograms, the current level in Taiwan, or one-half the U.S. level, total consumption would climb to a staggering 641 million tons and the import deficit would reach 378 million tons."

China's economic boom will provide ample income to pay for the needed grain imports. But who could supply grain on this scale? The answer: No one. Since 1980, annual world grain exports have averaged roughly 200 million tons, of which close to half comes from the United States. But the U.S. is also faced with losses of cropland and irrigation water to non-farm uses" and 95 million more people in the next 40 years.

"With more than 100 countries already importing U.S. grain, and with their import needs projected to climb, this exportable surplus is largely spoken for."

"No country or combination of countries, has the additional export potential to fill more than a small fraction of the potential food deficit forming in China. At the same time, huge deficits are projected for other parts of the world. Africa is expected to need 250 million tons of grain by 2030, ten times current imports." China's needs "will set up a fierce competition for limited exportable supplies, driving world grain priced far above familiar levels...China's food scarcity will become the world's scarcity." "In the booming economy of China, we will see the inevitable collision between expanding human demand for food and the limits of some of the earth's most basic natural systems...The shock waves from this collision will reverberate throughout the world economy with consequences that we can only now begin to foresee." Lester Brown co-author with Hal Kane of "Full House: Reassessing the Earth's Population Carrying Capacity" (W.W. Norton).

A sincere thank you to all the nurses and staff of the Minden Hospital for their wonderful care and loving consideration toward my well-being and comfort while a patient there. Also to the ambulance attendants for their patience and thoughtfulness. God bless you all!
Mary Eaton.

Thank you to the people of Lutterworth for the support you gave me in the municipal election. Thank you,
Paul L. Pilon.
P.S. I would like to thank the local realtors who agreed to have their signs recycled for campaign purposes.

The family of the late Jean Lacey would like to express our sincere appreciation to all our relatives, friends and neighbours for all the prayers, food, floral tributes, memorial donations and visits during a very difficult time.

We would like to thank Dr. Mark Chayer, the nursing staff of Minden Hospital, Lois Adamson and the ladies of the A.C.W., the Lionesses, the Legion Ladies Auxiliary, The Times, Ann McAdam and the choir of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Jeanne Sears and Arnie Dykstra. A very special thanks to Barbara Trociewicz, Father Brian Parker and family, Kirsten, Barry and Gord at Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home for all the kindness, support and help you gave us. CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to thank Dr. Chayer, Dr. Rhodes, all the nurses and staff of Minden Hospital for being so kind to me while I was a patient there. Thanks to my good neighbours Freda and John Hulbig for taking me there and visiting me while I was there. May God bless you all.
Pearl Barry.

"What is defeat? Nothing but an education...the first step to something better."
I would like to say thank you to all my supporters and to the 342 Stanhope voters who pledged their faith in me by putting the X beside my name. Congratulations to Jim Hicks, Ann Barker and Murray Daniels for their success in this election. I think missing a seat by a mere 23 votes is a fine show for a first-timer. I will continue to work with and for, the township of Stanhope and in three years I'm sure I'll have that much more to offer. See you at the polls in '97!
Carol Moffatt.

Sincere thanks to my family, relatives and friends for the surprise birthday party held for me at the Curling Club November 12. It was very much appreciated.
Verna McDonald.

Thank you to all Staff, Council Members, Volunteer Committee members and residents who supported me over the last nine years. I am proud of the advancements and improvements in A. H & M. Good Luck!
Bern Berry.
